

HPSF

CONFERENCE 2027

April 12 - 16, 2027 | Montréal, Québec

2027 SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

Join us for the 2027 annual HPSF Conference, where developers and users of some of the most critical software projects in High Performance Computing (HPC) come together to shape the future. Hosted by the High Performance Software Foundation (HPSF), this event is dedicated to advancing community-driven, production-ready solutions for performance, portability, and productivity in a rapidly evolving HPC landscape.

With its focus on engineering and community building, the HPSF Conference is a unique opportunity to illuminate the emerging challenges of integrating AI usage and accelerated computing into the development processes for the software products HPC relies on. Together, we'll explore how open source collaboration and a unified foundation for high performance software can unlock new possibilities for addressing the most challenging science and engineering computing problems.

Learn what's new across HPSF projects, connect with the engineering communities building them, and help lead the charge in delivering high performance software.
